

AGENDA ITEM: System Advisory BoardGENERAL OVERALL PROGRAM UPDATES:

CURRENT STATUS: 2001/02 System Plans of Service for the System Advisory Board Program indicate that all 15 Systems have planned to accomplish the duties specified for SABs in the Act (See Exhibit A). Plans of Service estimates show that SAB members will collectively travel over 43,920 miles to attend SAB and Administrative Council meetings. This does not include the many hours SABs contribute by attending these meetings, as well as various committee meetings, to the effort to improve System planning for the delivery of CLSA supported services. SABs also contribute many hours to special projects and publicity for the System.

Each year Systems are required to report the representation of various designated population segments on their System Advisory Boards. A compilation of these reports is included as Exhibit B. Board members are reminded that "representation" does not necessarily constitute membership in specific population segments, and that a single SAB member may represent more than one designated category. It should also be noted that SAB members are appointed by the governing bodies of member library jurisdictions, not by System Administrative Councils.

PROGRAM TRENDS: System Plans of Services indicate that System Advisory Boards will continue their emphasis on publicity and public relations as well as their activities in the evaluation of System services and in the assessment of community needs for library services. Some Systems continue to provide their SABs the opportunity to participate in System-sponsored workshops and training events. Many SABs are making the needs of libraries known through personal contacts and written communications to state and local legislators, local officials and community groups.

At its June meeting the Board requested that staff proceed with activities to honor SABs at a breakfast event in order to recognize the valuable assistance that SABs provide to the planning and delivery of System services. Arrangements for this event are underway.

TRANSITION PROCESS: At the Support Services Committee meeting in June, the Chair presented committee members with transition principles for the CLSA System Advisory Board program. The steps proposed for the transition of SABs are included as Exhibit C.

The Library of California Act does not include a regional library network user advisory board similar to the CLSA System Advisory Boards. However, the Act does require that each regional library network Council include a library user from each type of member library and that each regional library network Board of Directors include at least one library user. These library users represent library users in the region and have the same status and voting rights as the library members of the network. These requirements appear to have the same intent as the CLSA System Advisory Board Program, which is to provide a mechanism to involve the user community in the planning and development of services, to foster communication between the administrative bodies and library users, and to ensure that the network's services meet the needs of its users. The establishment and related duties of regional library network Councils and Boards are included in the mandatory Administration program element of the Library of California, and therefore that program would be the most likely target area for transitioning this particular CLSA program into the multitype network of the Library of California.

This would not prevent a regional library network from also establishing an advisory committee of representatives from its member libraries' user communities, if it wished to take such action.
